W. C. Daley Reinstated. One of the turf sensations of last year was the action of the National Jockey club in ruling off W. C. Daley and his noted steeplechaser, Jim McGowan, on account of fraudulent riding of the horse at the Ivy City meeting. There has always been a strong sympathy for Daley in the matter, he having constantly asseverated his innocence of fraud constantly assoverated his innocence of fraud in the matter, and the jockey who throw the race having declared that he did it without Daley's knowledge. An application for Daley's reinstatement has been strongly pressed before the Jockey club for some time past, with the result that at a special meeting held last night it was concluded in view of the isst night it was concluded in view of the doubts as to Daley's guilt, and the severe punishment already inflicted upon him, to grant his petition. The reinstatement takes effect from and after Aug. I. Turimen at harpe will be glad that Jim McGowan will again have a chance to display his splendid powers us one of the best steeplechase horses that ever jumped an obstacle in this country. He does not now belong to Daley, having been sold some months ago to Baron Von Zeidlitz for a large sum—said to have been $4,500.

A WOMAN STABBED.

The Result of a Quarrel Between Two Colored Women Over a Lover.

A serious and perhaps fatal cutting affray occurred between two colored women in East Washington last night. Rose Taylor was standing in front of her house, 119 Sixth street southeast, when Rachael Ross, a rather pretty octoroon, passed by,

Rachael charged Rose with trying to take her lover from her, and Rose protested against the charge. The result was a fight, during which Rachael pulled out along bladed pocket knife and cut Rose across the abdomen. Rose seized the knife and received a deep cut on the right hand. Dr. Chow was called in and pronounced the wound of the abdomen of a very dangerous character. Rachael is held at the eighth station.

The Tribulation of the Rich. A rich man's son labors under many disadvantages. It is not even necessary that the father be rich; it is enough that he be so reputed or esteemed. The arrangement of the family meals in wealthy houses forbids him mechanical employment unless entirely separated from paternal and maternal oversight. The fact that he is a rich man's son renders him more restless under control because of independ-ence of employment, and the general recognition of that independence forbids employment at all. He cannot commence at the bottom, the only method of arriving at com-bettom, the only method of arriving at complete knowledge, without lowering his social standing, and that requires an extraordinary amount of self denial.

A distinguished statesman and erator attributes his success to early orphanage. Not so fortunate was the youth who recommended himself to the Chicago merchant as the sen of his father. "Young man," said the merchant, "Chicago is the last place in the world for daddyism."

THE CARE OF HORSES. Some genius has invented a contrivance which, it is thought, will supercede the bridle bit. It is called the carrage, or anti-horse terture. It is composed of a steel band placed over the front bone of the horse's rose, and to his appliance the reins are attached. The inventor claims for this substitute for the bit that it gives complete control to the driver over the horse without indicting the least discomfort or torture to the animal itself. It has been tried with satisfactory results.
